Godmen under lens

Liking one's work or others, according to some thinkers, is no big deal if love pervades the relationship. Understanding the phenomenon of love properly (wisely) is not everybody's cup of tea. The abode of God and precincts of spirituality are accepted as not only places flowing with unbiased love and consequent tranquil ambience, but a belief that doesn't differentiate one religion from the other. If this belief is also an experience of those who enter the portals of the abode of Gods or Ashrams across the country it can be soothing to one's mind. The land's epics are replete with episodes featuring both divinity and mortals as well as animals showering love on one another with highly rewarding outcomes. The love displayed by speechless species among themselves and for their care-givers cannot be described in words. The case of inter-gender relationships driven by love has been bestowed its due by poets, story-writers, movie-makers and also writers including journalists. If the players are in the class of youth, the society is known to take note and savour the related reports in the media.

Many poets and writers of prose who lived in the land several centuries ago are credited with highly refined quality literature in various languages, particularly Sanskrit, among who Kalidasa has earned rich accolades from scholars and critics alike. The unmistakable feature of their writings is the fusion of love and spirituality. The current scenario of Ashrams, figuring in media reports, with those in charge yielding to carnal desires in the garb of monks and pontiffs has apparently smeared love in black.

Persons in high posts, in the vast range of academics to heads of States, seem to be keeping august company of heads of spiritual institutions and priesthood in deviating from the norms of morality in sex-related matters, going by reports in dailies sourced to many countries in both hemispheres, those in India with dubious distinction of substantial share in such scandalous reports. Suspicion of immorality in virtually all reported cases, popularly described as affairs is common knowledge. Banning the entry of women within an age group from the sanctum sanctorum of a place of worship in one of the States which figured in the news columns of dailies not too long ago is also triggered by suspicion, apart from other considerations.

In a sweeping order, the Supreme Court has launched a massive audit of all religious places to unearth facts relating to various complaints about the goings on. People await with unbounded eagerness the outcome of bringing the Godmen of all hues under the government's lens. There are bound to be bad apples as everywhere.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

One of the greatest sources of tension in our world — both inner and outer — is anger. Whether it is expressed, or stays suppressed, anger will breed ill will and even death. If you have ever seen the list of crimes committed, you will know that almost all of them were committed in a fit of anger, or due to harbouring of deep-seated anger against someone. Anger can cause communities of people to rise in violence; it can vitiate relations between neighbours, nations and even spouses and within families. It is not hate but anger that is the greatest evil in the world, because unresolved anger converts to hate and thereon the spiral of hurt and pain starts. Fortunately, not all of us actualise our anger or the world will be worse for it. — Gyalwang Drukpa in The New Sunday Express

Salon seals live ants in acrylic nails

Moscow: A Russian nail salon has been slammed as 'sick' and 'cruel' on social media after posting photos and videos of live ants crawling inside models' hollow acrylic nails.

Moscow-based Nail Sunny beauty salon has built a reputation for pushing the envelope, and several of their quirky ideas have gone viral on social media like Instagram or Facebook in the past. However, they may have gone a bit too far with their latest creation – hollow acrylic nails that act as display cases for live insects. While some of the salon's 1.8 million Instagram followers commended its staff for the original idea, the vast majority of comments were negative.

Dog stuck inside tree preserved for nearly 60 years

Waycross: When loggers for the Georgia Kraft Corp. cut a chestnut oak into logs they made a grim discovery in 1980. Lodged in a hollow stretch near the top of the tree was a mummified hunting dog. Rather than send the log to the sawmill, the loggers donated it to Forest World, a tree museum in Waycross, Georgia where it has become a star attraction ever since.

The dog, named 'Stuckie' after a 2002 naming contest, had apparently been in the tree for approximately 20 years before the loggers discovered him.

How the hound became mummified inside the tree instead of rotting is a much more interesting question, though.

Stuckie, did not disintegrate or rot "thanks" to the nature of the trap that ultimately killed him. The factors that led to his mummification are explained on a plaque beside the Stuckie exhibit at the Forest World Museum:

HEALTH CAPSULE by Bron Smith

What are the best nutrients for heart health?

The heart requires adequate amounts of Q10, potassium and magnesium in order to function efficiently. Q10 helps reduce the risk of repeat heart attacks. Potassium serves to alleviate heart rhythm disturbances. Magnesium works to lower blood pressure and maintain a steady heart beat.

Mysuru, Aug.30 - The project titled 'Implementing intelligent traffic control system for congestion control, Ambulance clearance and stolen vehicle detection,' submitted by the students of the Department of Information Science and Engineering, Vidyavardhaka College of Engineering, has bagged Best Project Award of State-level KSCST Competition for the Academic Year 2017-18.

The award winning students — D. Kavyashree, H.D. Nischitha, S. Swetharani and Gul Afshan — worked under Project Guide M.V. Prashanth.

Abstract: This project presents an intelligent traffic control system to pass emergency vehicles smoothly. Each individual vehicle is equipped with special Radio Frequency Identification (RFID) tag (placed at a strategic location), which makes it impossible to remove or destroy.

If the RFID-tag-read belongs to the stolen vehicle, then a message is sent using GSM SIM300 to the Police Control Room. In addition, when an ambulance is approaching the junction, it will communicate to the traffic controller in the junction to turn ON the green light.

LAUGHTER THE BEST MEDICINE

At a funeral, the pall-bearers bump into a wall and hear a faint moan. They open the casket only to find out that the woman is alive. She lives for 10 more years and then dies. There is another funeral for her. At the end of the service, the pall-bearers carry out the casket. As they are walking out, the hubby cries out "watch out for the wall!"

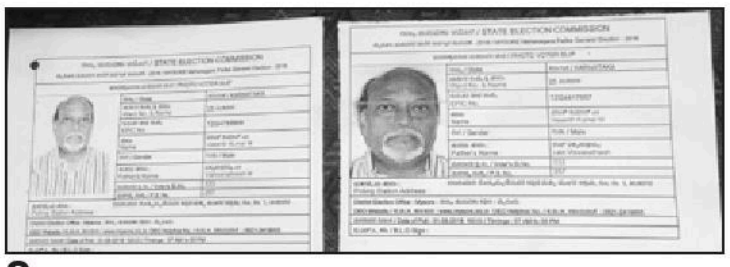
VOICE OF THE READER

I want to vote ONLY once, but...



Sir,

The two Photo Voter Slips that were in my name were handed over to me by an official of Election Commission at my house on Aug. 28 along with other members' slips of my household. According to these slips, I am entitled to vote twice in the MCC elections to be held on Aug.31.

I checked for veracity and found that my name appears at Sl.Nos.332 and 333 of the Voters list of Polling Station 257, Ward 25 - Tilaknagar. Even during 2014 General Elections I had received two slips and had made the official record this error with a request to delete one entry. But the requisite correction does not appear to have been carried out.

During 2014 and subsequent elections, as Convener of Voters Awareness Movement I had assisted the Election Commission, Mysuru, in getting more than 1,000 youngsters from Degree Colleges in city enrolled as new voters. My services have been appreciated with recorded entries in the Office of the District Election Officer, Mysuru.

Usher in a new era
by voting in large numbers

Sir,

Mysureans have an opportunity to usher in a new era by casting votes to those candidates who have pledged to implement some minimum policies like refusing to take commissions offered by contractors for work undertaken in their Wards, to promote digitisation of property tax, 24X7 water supply, preserving parks and lakes by ensuring all environmental laws are obeyed, proper implementation of building bye-laws and promote formation of Ward Committees.

Unless the educated votes in large numbers to neutralise the impact of vote banks driven by caste, money power and religion, Mysuru City Corporation will further fall into the hands of corrupt elements who in turn will destroy the city.

Vote and Vote Right

Sir,

The Urban Local Body elections are scheduled for Aug. 31 and the need of the hour is good leaders with intelligence and integrity. It is unfortunate that good people are shying away from taking this responsibility. Moreso the young people.

The choice of candidates being made by established political parties is far from desirable. Winnability has become the only criteria and not the quality of the individual. This, combined with indifferent attitude of educated people, both criminal and undesirable elements are getting elected. And politics has become a lucrative business to amass wealth.

I hope the educated and well-informed people will take responsibility to come out and vote and vote to good individuals during the MCC elections. Remember, your vote to right people is the only hope to bring a change for the better.

Dasara elephants groomed, well fed for Gajapayana

Hanagodu, Aug.30 (Mahesh &BCT)- The first batch of six Dasara elephants are being readied for the Gajapayana, the march of the elephants from camps inside the forests, that will take place at Veeranahosahalli Gate on Sept.2. The elephants are being cleaned and bathed with warm water regularly and are being fed with nutritious food and are being prepared to be transported to Mysuru for Naada Habba. The elephants will be traditionally welcomed at the Mysore Palace on Sept.3.

The first batch is being led by Howdah Elephant 58-year-old Arjuna from Balle elephant camp. The others are 60-year-old Balarama, 52-year-old Abhimanyu and 39-year-old Drona — all from Mathigodu elephant camp, 42-year-old Chaitra from Bandipur and 62-year-old Varalakshmi from Masti elephant camp.

Apart from being fed with sumptuous meals, Forest Department Veterinarian Dr. Mujeeb is doing daily checks of the elephants, especially Arjuna who will be the cynosure of all eyes on the Vijayadashami day. Elephants are being closely checked for any possible infections. Even their dung is checked and monitored. Along with the elephants, mahouts, kavadis and their family members are getting ready for the Gajapayana. For the Gajapayana, the Veeranahosahalli Gate is being decked up. The weeds around the gate are being cleared and the land is being levelled by earth movers. Over 1,200 chairs will be placed for the crowd that is expected for the event. Over 1,200 packets of food will be distributed on that day for the crowd while over 400 guests, VIPs and media will be served with special food at Veeranahosahalli Tribal Ashrama School.

Elephants are being examined and bathed at Murkal in Kodagu before they head to Veeranahosahalli.

Special cultural programmes will be organised on the Gajapayana day where youth and children from the Tibetan Camp at Gurupura near Hunsur will present their traditional dances. This apart, tribals from Veeranahosahalli and surrounding areas will also present their culture in a colourful way.

Meanwhile, on the Mysore Palace campus, construction works on the temporary sheds to house the Dasara elephants and shelter for mahouts and kavadis are going on in full swing.

This time, 12 elephants will be brought to the city in two batches. The authorities have erected temporary shelters, including a school for the children of mahouts and kavadis, and a temporary healthcare centre.

Seismograph Centre records two mild quakes in Kodagu

Madikeri, Aug.30 (PS&BCT)- The Seismograph Centre, established at Navodaya Vidyalaya at Galibeedu in Kodagu, has yesterday recorded two mild earthquakes in flood-hit areas.

The mild quakes were recorded on Aug.27 and 28 at Galibeedu, Kaloor, Sampaje — all those places that have been severely affected by floods and landslides. The findings of the Seismograph have been recorded at National Geophysical Research Institute (NGRI) in Hyderabad.

The recordings were conveyed to the Principal of Navodaya Vidyalaya by Dr. Raghavan, senior scientist of NGRI. P.M. Issac, Principal, Navodaya Vidyalaya has confirmed to Star of Mysore about this development and said that some movements of tectonic plates under the earth have been recorded. Meanwhile, 15 families have been evacuated from Karike village in Kodagu after a geologist's alert.

Ananya Vasudev RM, an assistant lecturer of geology at the National Institute of Technology Karnataka, Surathkal had predicted that landslides may occur at Karike and alerted the authorities who evacuated over 15 families.

Ananya had received a video from a friend that showed loud and gurgling sound coming from beneath the ground. Seeing the video, he detected that the process of soil piping was occurring in the village where water gets beneath the surface, creating an underground tunnel. He immediately alerted the District Administration and recommended evacuation. Soil piping is internal soil erosion caused by water getting beneath the earth's surface. It leads to increased erosion, making the land less resistant and resulting in a collapse.

Residents have seen springs bursting forth with strange sounds. However, experts from Karnataka State Natural Disaster Monitoring Centre and geologists visited the place and have told the villagers not to panic. They said due to incessant rain this year, the flow of water has changed direction.

ANOTHER BODY RETRIEVED

Gilbert

A 25-member team, comprising personnel from the National Disaster Response Force (NDRF), Garuda and Kodagu Police dog squad, yesterday retrieved the body of Gilbert Mendoza (59), who was buried in a landslide at Katakeri on Aug.16. Gilbert is survived by his wife Rita and sons Akshay and Ajay. Locals claimed Gilbert was attempting to rescue his cattle during the calamity when he was struck by the landslide. While his family survived, they have lost their house and property.

GP Member brutally murdered in Hunsur

Deceased Nagaraj

Hunsur, Aug.30 (KK&KS)- A Gram Panchayat (GP) Member was brutally murdered in broad daylight near Kendagannaswamy Gaddige in Hunsur taluk yesterday morning.

The deceased GP Member has been identified as Nagaraj (35), a resident of Kuttavadi village and a Member of Karimuddanahalli Gram Panchayat in the taluk. Nagaraj was running a shamiyana rental shop near Kendagannaswamy Gaddige.

Yesterday at about 11 am when Nagaraj was at his shop, two persons identified as Lokesh and his brother-in-law Karthik barged into the shop and brutally assaulted Nagaraj and fled from the spot leaving Nagaraj in a pool of blood. Though he was rushed to a private hospital in Mysuru, he had breathed his last.

It is learnt that Nagaraj was in love with a girl about eight years ago and had severed his relationship with her later. Later, the girl's parents had married her off to a youth in Srirangapatna and Nagaraj too had got married with another girl and has two children.

About a month ago, the girl had disappeared from her house and her husband had suspected the hand of Nagaraj behind it and had questioned Nagaraj, who had expressed his ignorance.

Later, the girl had returned home. But the matter resurfaced, when the girl went missing again two days ago.

Meanwhile, Lokesh, who came with Karthik (the girl's brother) to Nagaraj's shop yesterday morning, questioned him about the girl's disappearance to which Nagaraj again expressed his ignorance about the issue, which irked Lokesh and Karthik, who, in a fit of rage, brutally assaulted Nagaraj before fleeing from the spot.

Hunsur Circle Inspector Poovaiah said that two teams have been formed to nab the suspects at the earliest. Bilikere Police have registered a case in this regard.

Youth sentenced to two years imprisonment under POCSO Act

Mysuru, Aug.30 (KS)- The Protection of Children from Sexual Offences (POCSO) Special Court has sentenced a 23-year-old youth to two years imprisonment and has imposed a fine of Rs.10,000 for harassing a minor girl in February this year.

The youth, who was convicted, has been identified as Naveen, a native of Govindanahalli in K.R. Pet taluk of Mandya district and residing at Vinayakanagar (Paduvarahalli) in Mysuru. He was working as a water can supplier in city. Naveen, who used to supply water cans to the victim's house regularly, learnt that the 10-year-old girl used to stay in the house alone after school till her working mother returned in the evening. Taking advantage of the situation, Naveen had made sexual advances, following which the girl protested and raised an alarm.

The girl had narrated the incident to her mother, when she returned in the evening following which the girl's mother lodged a complaint at V.V. Puram Police Station the next day.

POCSO Special Court Judge B.S. Jayashri, who heard the argument, found the accused guilty of the crime and sentenced him under POCSO Act. Special Public Prosecutor B.C. Shivarudraswamy argued for the Govt.

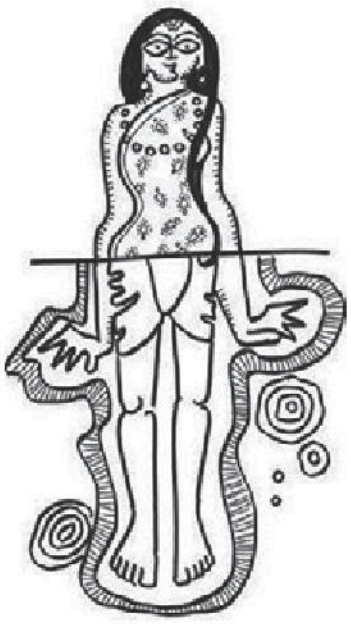
Decoding Mythology

Dr. Devdutt Pattanaik - Author, Speaker, Illustrator, Mythologist

Breaking the binary

In the Puranas, we have heard the story of the Narasimha avatar. Hiranyakashipu had obtained a boon from Brahma that he should not be killed by either man or animal, at day or at night, above or below, inside or outside, by neither weapon nor tool. This boon rendered Hiranyakashipu invincible and immortal. He assumed he was God until his son Prahalad said that a greater power exists in the world, everywhere, even within the pillars of his Palace.



Hiranyakashipu smote one such pillar and, from within the pillar, emerged a strange creature that was neither human nor animal. The creature caught hold of Hiranyakashipu and dragged him to the threshold, which was neither inside nor outside a dwelling, and at dusk, which is neither day nor night, picked him up and placed him on his thigh, which is neither above nor below, but, somewhere in the middle, and then tore his guts apart using his claws, which are neither weapons nor tools. Thus, the impossibility of a creature and a moment like this is achieved.

Hiranyakashipu had assumed that the world is made up of binaries, this and that, day and night, white and black, zero and one, but, Narasimha or Vishnu or Narayana had revealed to him that the world is not made up of binaries, that there is a whole world between and beyond the binaries. The story reveals the ancient understanding that the world cannot be reduced to binaries although, modern rational thinking tends to move that way because it is convenient. We forget that binaries are used to make our lives convenient but, they do not reflect the truth of nature.

Binaries are a cultural concept for simplicity. But, in nature there is no such thing as binaries, things wax and wane, telescope into each other, there are species which mingle and merge and there is no absolute. Things are constantly changing and are in a state of flux. Hence, the rishis, the ancient wise men of India, never accepted binaries, to the extent that in Sanskrit and Prakrit, the ancient languages of India and Tamil, we find over 50 words which we refer to today as 'queer'.

The modern word 'queer' refers to rising between and beyond binary genders, male and female, masculine and feminine but, appreciates the fact that human beings exist in a fluid spectrum between and beyond these two concepts of gender. And, therefore, in Hindu, Buddhist and Jain literature there are vast descriptions of different kinds of queer, from cross dressers to transgenders, to intersects, to lesbians, to gays.

The existence of multiple words, over 50, reveals the close understanding of this, that it is possible for a male to have desire for a female, female to have a desire for a male, for men who behave like men to desire women, men who behave like women to desire women — so all kinds of permutations and combinations.

A similar idea is found far away amongst the native Americans. The native tribes of America have the concept of two spirits. Two spirit individuals were, what we call today, queer, and there were a whole variety of two spirit individuals. These were men and women who do not conform to the cultural notions of male and female, who either want to behave as members of the opposite gender or have desires for members of the same gender and are generally fluid. This reveals that the ancient Hindus and the ancient indigenous tribes had a closer association with nature. An association that was ripped apart as we created civilisation that denied the power of nature where no binaries exist.

Do compliment your spouse today

Kal ho na ho...

By N.K.A. Ballal,
Retd. Sr. Vice-President, ITDC

Ninety percent of the families do miss the daily happy moments. The husband gets back home and the wife does not inquire about his day. Similarly, the husband does not tell his wife that he missed her very much. But at least as happened in the story, if the young man and woman in prime do start thinking and start appreciating their better-halves, the world would be a better place to live.

A story on WhatsApp: I overheard an argument of a young couple in a super-market recently. The young man angrily told his wife to do shopping on her own and sat down in of the chairs that were placed outside the supermarket. He was still upset when I approached and asked him for the reasons for his behaviour, only if he did not mind sharing it with an old man of 60 years.

Ballal

Nothing uncle, he told me. Then he continued... My wife wanted me to do shopping with her but I am dead tired today after my work. I was so upset when she insisted me to come along with her to the super-market.

I smiled and told this young man that I always went out with my wife whenever possible until she left me 5 months ago. My wife had passed away and I am left alone in this world now. We both were of the same age. We were teachers by profession and after our retirement we went around India visiting ancient temples and other spiritual places of interest.

Our children are married and settled and living on their own busy with their families. Unfortunately, my wife's health was poor. She had diabetes and blood pressure. So I was taking care of her because she had to take medicines on time. Now she is no more. I feel very lonely. My days are longer and nights are emptier.

When I see her belongings, I am reminded of her. The medicines that she did not consume and are now remaining as leftover also makes me feel sad and depressed.

I still keep her mobile number but now she will not pick up the phone if I call her or answer my messages.

We both used to share the same bed by taking each side of it. But now I am lying in there all alone in the middle of the bed.

I prepare my own food in the name of cooking. I do not have my wife to cook delicious food for me now. She is not there to accompany me to the temple.

Suddenly I realised the young man was crying. I told him, "Love your wife when you are together. Praise her whenever you get a chance to do it."

I am now going to the cemetery to meet my wife. I am counting my days so that I can join her anytime.

I said goodbye to the young man who was stunned and stuck with emotions. He soon got back to his senses and rushed inside the super-market.

Simple story but a lesson for both men and women. Please do not take your partners for granted.

Yes, men should start accepting their wives as they are and women tolerate harsh words of their husbands at times for an overall improvement and fulfilment in their married lives. Ironically, we are so polite to strangers and greet people well but are we doing the same to our wives? Are we really respecting them ?

Ninety percent of the families do miss the daily happy moments. The husband gets back home and the wife does not inquire about his day. Similarly, the husband does not tell his wife that he missed her very much.

When I started to think back on my own life, I realised that I also was guilty of neglect of my better-half. Took her for granted. I am sure she would have been much more happy, if only I had conveyed my appreciation of her work, dedication etc. then. Now that I am in a position to replay my life story, I realised that I literally had no hand in the upbringing of my children except probably provide for them in terms of money. Once in a while maybe I used to attend the parent-teacher meetings. I used to be under false notion that working long hours with or without any justifications would please the bosses. Did my better-half complain? No.

Now in my prime, I am in a position to understand and appreciate but it is quite late. How I wish I could turn the clock back.

But at least as happened in the story, if the young man and woman in prime do start thinking and start appreciating their better-halves, the world would be a better place to live. A simple genuine appreciation works wonders. If she calls you out for shopping, please do go, your better-half also requires a break from the routine. Communicate, sometimes even a genuine smile, a small pat, would do.

Kal ho na ho... One never knows what tomorrow holds out for both of you. Do you agree?

Abracadabra... Abracadabra...

Meeting Devil's Advocate Karan Thapar

There are two culturally enriching organisations in our city that came into existence in the past three years. One is the Mysore Book Clubs - 2015 under the auspices of the Mysore Literary Forum Charitable Trust (MLFCT), promoted by that ever-active Shubha Sanjay Urs, skilled in the art of making friends, the President. More or less during the same period, another organisation related to books and literature known as 'Mysore Literary Association' (MLA) took birth under the Presidentship of its promoter Prof. K.C. Belliappa, an english teacher. He was the former Vice-Chancellor of Rajiv Gandhi Central University at Itanagar, Arunachal Pradesh.

While 'MLA' conducted a Literary Festival once in a year, so also the MLFCT. In other times, both these organisations engage themselves in literature-related activities like poetry and novel reading by authors or launching new books by the authors both well-known and less-known. It was only a few days back on Sunday August 12, 2018, the second Mysore Literary Festival of 'MLA' was held at the Senate Bhavan which Sarod Maestro Pandit Rajiv Taranath had inaugurated.

Among others, Pavan K. Varma, the former diplomat, now a politician and a well-known author, was a Star Speaker. He had rendered a lucid exposition of Adi Shankaracharya about whom he had written a book of the same title. Therefore, it was a sort of double blessings or to use a slang 'double dhamaka' for Mysureans when the MLFCT organised a book release at the Wind Chimes in Nazarbad, where Karan Thapar, the well-known TV presenter and author was the Superstar. His latest book 'Devil's Advocate - The Untold Story' was launched and then he was engaged in a conversation with another VIP from Karnataka Prof. M.V. Rajeev Gowda, a Congress MP. The book was launched by Raian Irani, industrialist and the inheritor of the legacy of the legendary Jawa Motorcycle.

When Shubha told me that Karan Thapar was coming to Mysuru to launch his book and Prof. Rajeev Gowda would engage him in a conversation, I was both delighted and excited no end.

[Pic. by K.B. Ganapathy]

Is it a sign of shy nature of a person?

There are two reasons for that. One, seeing Karan would be like seeing a mirror image of my own late brother Dr. K.B. Subbaiah with so much likeness to my brother's facial features; even that restrained smile. Another reason for my interest is the time of his visit. It was just 22 days after I wrote my column 'Abracadabra' titled "'Devil's Advocate' quoting Bible!" where I had alluded to what Karan Thapar had revealed about Pavan Varma — wondering if it was ethical on the part of a journalist.

Wind Chimes is a renovated-restored heritage property with its small hall, which could accommodate about 150 people. It has a huge area behind with two Rain trees spreading its branches full of foliage and a huge trunk, suggesting its heritage, well-secured with a circular construction around it on the ground where people could sit holding their glasses and saying cheers to each other. It is an ideal rendezvous for parties and functions of this kind. Since there was apprehension about the impending rain, the function was moved indoors.

Being an Army General's son, one would normally imagine his personality to be similar to that of swashbuckling army officers. Well, but none of it was there in him. The image of Karan Thapar to the TV viewers, undoubtedly, was that of a butcher. An angry poker-faced predator after its prey with an impassive face and tout lips that rarely smiled while asking treacherous questions in staccato voice making the query sitting opposite quiver like a piece of jelly under a tremor. In sharp contrast, what I saw in him was a soft, gentle person with a shy smile, of average height and unassuming. To use my aunt's lingo 'he is so sweet'. I was surprised to see him wearing a jazzy maroon coloured printed long-sleeved bush-shirt, hanging out. Of course, his trademark grey hair was there.

He appeared to be feeling shy on occasions he was not used to, like while he was being honoured with Mysuru Peta and a silk stole or when he was introduced with words bordering on flattery. I had noticed him on many occasions on TV with fingers covering his mouth in a certain way. Wow, there it was. I thought I should catch him on camera with that posture so that I could use it in my column on him. Therefore, I kept my eyes riveted on him holding my cell phone to capture that moment. (See Pic.)

The detailed report of the function has already appeared in Star of Mysore and I will not inflict a repetition. However, I must mention about the interview Niranjan Nikam, Features Editor of Star of Mysore, had with Karan before joining guests for dinner. The interview will appear soon. After autographing books purchased by his admirers, from the small book stall opened by Sapna Book House of our city, I was able to waylay him on the aisle. I told him about the semblance between him and my late brother and also mentioned of the book I have written detailing the 40-year journey of Star of Mysore about which was mentioned in the welcome speech. Grace !

Be that as it may, the following morning, I requested Niranjan Nikam to collect the book and the Ganjifa painting by the renowned artist Raghupathi Bhat from my house and hand them over to Karan as I was leaving for Kodagu early in the morning. When Niranjan went to the hotel at 8 O' clock, he was told to leave the items at the Reception Desk asking them to deliver to his room. The hotel was Radisson Blu near the Race Course. However, the items were not delivered either to his room or while checking out. Thanks to Shubha's sixth sense that she had asked her english-speaking driver, who was to drive Karan to Bengaluru, to check about the items Niranjan had left at the Reception Desk. The driver saved the situation for me and I guess for Karan too.

Another embarrassing moment in the Radisson Desk was when Karan arrived at the hotel to check-in. The Receptionist at the Desk was telephoning Shubha saying, 'Mam, your guest has arrived. Who will make the payment for the room,' when in fact, full payment was already made towards the room. Shubha was not sure if Karan was within the ear-shot of the call ! Amen.

Floods shatter sports star's life in Kodagu

23-year-old Tashma Muthappa seeks government job

Kushalnagar, Aug. 30 (AG&BCT)- She was forced to give up her bright sporting career due to financial constraints and she had to support her family by taking up a data entry job. Now floods have wreaked havoc in her life and she has lost everything including her humble abode in Madikeri. This international-level throwball champion is now homeless. In a desperate appeal to the State Government, Tashma Muthappa is seeking help to rebuild her life.

Tashma Muthappa

Her house in Second Monnangeri at Madikeri was washed away in the rain that lashed northern parts of Kodagu district continuously from Aug. 15. Her house was built just one-and-a-half-years back and her family spent Rs. 25 lakh for the RCC-roofed house. All that remains of the house now is a side wall and its foundation with the rest of the rooms buried under scattered debris.

Her marriage had been fixed sometime back with Manjesh from Bettageri village near Madikeri, who is settled in Dubai since the last three years. The couple had got engaged and the wedding was fixed in December this year and accordingly, jewellery worth over Rs. 3.5 lakh was purchased for the wedding. All the jewellery and Rs. 50,000 cash has been washed away along with Tashma's medals, trophies and certificates. The marriage has now been fixed to April next year.

Tashma began playing throwball at a very young age and has represented Kodagu District, Karnataka State and the country in many State, National and International-level throwball events. She has also been part of Karnataka team that has won four national throwball championship titles.

She scaled the heights of her sporting career in 2014 when she represented the State in events that were held at Haryana, Tamil Nadu and Karnataka. At an International throwball event held at Sindhi College in Bengaluru, Tashma won the Gold Medal. Many times she was adjudged the Best Player.

As fate willed, her sporting career came to an abrupt end in 2016 when she was forced to take up a contract data entry job at Kodagu Institute of Medical Sciences, Madikeri. She had to support her father Muthappa and mother Girija who worked at a resort in Madikeri. She also had to look after her younger brother.

Everything was going smooth as Tashma was supplementing the family income after giving up her bright sporting career. Pooling in their hard-earned money and borrowing loans, the family members built a house in a half-acre plot at Second Monnangeri and Rs. 25 lakh was spent on the house.

The entire family, including Tashma's brother, was working to clear off the loans. But unfortunately, her brother died tragically last year. Just as the family was trying to cope up with the death of its loved one, floods struck and their lives were shattered again.

PARENTS AT RELIEF CENTRE

As their house was washed away, Tashma and her family shifted to a relief centre at Cherambane and later, the family was accommodated at a Relief Centre at Madikeri Chamber of Commerce Building. She is at present staying at a friend's place as he has to go to work while her parents continue to stay at the relief centre.

A graduate in Commerce from Alva's College in Moodabidre, Tashma has always been a merit student in school and college days. Moreover, she has brought laurels for her country and State. Unfortunately, neither the country nor the State has given any due recognition to her achievements and now she literally stands amidst nowhere.

Now 23-years-old, she dreams of getting a stable government job to support her family. "I need to support my parents who have lost everything they had," says an emotional Tashma. "Having brought honours to the State many times, I hope that the Karnataka government will consider helping me in this hour of crisis," she says.

Shivamogga Lions succumb to Belagavi Panthers

Diskshanshu Negi set up the tone at the top order for the successful chase

Mysuru, Aug.30 (SV)- A splendid all-round team effort from Belagavi Panthers saw them defeat Shivamogga Lions by five wickets in the ongoing Karnataka Premier League (KPL)-2018 encounter at the SDNR Wadiyar Stadium in city yesterday.

Stuart Binny, captain of Belagavi Panthers put the opposition into bat after winning the toss. Shivamogga Lions posted a total of 163 for 8 in 20 overs.

Shivamogga Lions were staring at yet another poor show when they were 100 for 5 at the end of 15 overs. Only opener Nihal Ullal (34) was able to make useful contributions in the top order. The game turned tables when Anirudha Joshi (54) and skipper Abhimanyu Mithun (23) shared a 24 ball 55 run partnership for the sixth wicket.

Anirudha Joshi 54 (32b,5x4,3x6) with his big hitting abilities made sure that the Lions held their heads high after the conclusion of their innings. Shubang Hegde (1 for 12) got the ball turning and caused concerns for the batsmen as he concluded an economical spell.

In Reply, Belagavi Panthers were well served by opener Dikshanshu Negi who top scored with a stroke-filled 54. He was well supported by S. Rakshith (22) and Stuart Binny (32).

The Shivamogga Lions made a comeback into the match as they dismissed both Negi and Binny within a span of no time. With 45 needed of 32 balls, D. Avinash (35 n.o.), who was dropped twice, was the man that changed the game.

Avinash 35 (17b,4x4,2x6) with his aggressive batting ensured to take Belagavi Panthers over the line as they finished at 166 for 5 in 19.3 overs. Negi was adjudged as the 'Man of the Match.'

With this result, the Lions have now suffered their fourth successive loss in this season.

SCORES

Shivamogga Lions: 163 for 8 in 20 overs (Nihal Ulal 34, Anirudha Joshi 54, Stuart Binny 2 for 30, Shubang Hegde 1 for 12) lost to Belagavi Panthers: 166 for 5 in 19.3 overs (Dikshanshu Negi 54, Stuart Binny 32, D. Avinash 35 n.o., Abhimanyu Mithun 2 for 24).

Asian Games: Old warhorse Sharath Kamal, new sensation Manika break new grounds

Jakarta, Aug.30- On Day 11, Arpinder Singh and Swapna Barman added golden hue to India Asian Games 2018 medal tally. Arpinder claimed the men's triple jump gold medal with a jump of 16.77 metres while Swapna Barman recorded over 6000 points to claim the heptathlon gold.

Dutee Chand won a silver in the women's 200 metres, while the table tennis mixed doubles pair of Manika Batra and Achanta Sharath Kamal registered a bronze medal.

Swapna Barman held a slender 63-point lead over her Chinese rival Wang Qingling after the end of six events on Tuesday. All she had to do in the 800 metres, the last event, was to stay within 4 seconds of Wang's time. But Swapna beat Wang to the tape and sealed off the gold medal.

As a result of these path-breaking performances, the country remained on course to better its previous edition's haul and tallied 54 medals — 11 gold, 20 silver and 23 bronze.

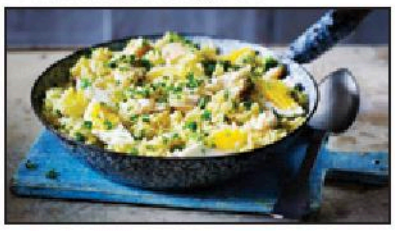
WORD OF THE DAY

Kedgeree

Pronunciation: ked-ge-ree



Meaning: A bravura breakfast with Anglo-Indian roots.
Origin: An Indian dish of seasoned rice, beans, lentils, and sometimes smoked fish; cooked or smoked fish, rice, hard-boiled eggs, and seasoning heated in cream. The British have form in appropriating the dishes – as well as the resources – of their colonies: think curry and chow mein. But it is a beguiling melange of smoky, salty fish, spiced rice and hard-boiled eggs that is possibly the greatest gift from the Anglo-Indian entanglement to our breakfast tables today. According to "Larousse Gastronomique", what we call kedgeree originated from a concoction of spiced lentils, rice, fried onions and ginger known as khichiri dating back to the 14th century and eaten across India. The early colonists developed a taste for it, as it reminded them of nursery food. Both khichiri and fish became mainstays of the Raj breakfast table and, in time, their Indian cooks integrated the two. Eggs, believed to have been introduced to the Indian kitchen repertoire by conquering Mughals centuries earlier, were later added as a garnish. Florence Nightingale and Queen Victoria were especially partial to kedgeree.
Example: Kedgeree makes a wonderful supper dish.

THE ODD WORD

Embasan

To wear clothes while taking bath.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

A millstone around one's neck

Meaning: A heavy and inescapable burden or responsibility.

Origin: This phrase is biblical in origin and its origins are found in Matthew 18:6 in The Wycliffe Bible, circa 1395: "It spedith to hym that a mylnestoon of assis be hangid in his necke and be drenchid in to the depnesse of the see." One don't need to be a scholar of Middle English to get the gist of that. The biblical punishment of having a heavy weight put round one's neck and being cast into the sea was a retribution for 'offending the little ones who believe in me'. Presumably, swimming would then be pretty much of a vertical affair. The expression has been in continuous use in English since at least the 14th century. These days a weighty burden is often referred to as the shortened form 'millstone'.
Example: That contract proved to be a millstone around his neck.
